Top takeaways:

How we protect our assets continues to evolve. Key drivers are decreasing the availability of human resources and driving augmentation of technology.

Every new technology we introduce needs to be scrutinized to understand all the potential risks.

Single points of failure (i.e. Power and Telcom) must be mitigated. Consider not only your assets and systems, but those provided by your vendors.

Keep a close eye on the data your systems generate. These systems are making decisions on your behalf with increasing frequency.
